FOREWORD

Trashhi Yangtse is nestled in the green Himalayan foothills with its valley's untapped physical setting and pristine environment forming the basis of its identity. The KholongChhu flows along the steep western slopes and along with the majestic Dzong which binds the valley visually. Notwithstanding only to this, folklore hails the Black-Necked Cranes' arrival as an auspicious sign for the community. While they roost and feed inside the Bumdeling Wildlife Sanctuary, the birds also feed on the paddy fields of Trashhi Yangtse town. The valley's natural, built and social fabric together renders a strong identity attracting many visitor which will help to generate economy in the country.

The plan contains proposals regarding the use of space with respect to zoning, settlement, landscape and infrastructure and sets out the general direction and objectives for the development of the Trashhi Yangtse. It recognizes area for the protection of the sensitive areas – environmental, spiritual, historical, scenic views, etc. The plan makes a clear distinction between the developments in specific areas while restricting them in other areas.

With the Structure plan ready for implementation, the Dzongkhag Administration in coordination with DHS, MoWHS initiated the formulation of the Development Control Regulations (DCR). This DCR have been formulated in line with the Structure Plan of Trashhi Yangtse. They support to realize the vision of the Structure Plan through the introduction of regulations and procedures. It contains five sections - administration, procedure for obtaining development permit, procedure during constructions and planning and building regulations. Trashhi Yangtse Dzongkhag Administration shall be the implementing authority for the implementation of these regulations.

The plans (Trashhi Yangtse Structure plan and the LAPs) provide clear direction for the growth and development of Trashhi Yangtse. And the DCR is designed to support and facilitate the realization of the goals and objectives envisioned in the plan. Therefore, I would like to urge all the stakeholders and land owners to extend their whole hearted cooperation and support in smooth implementation and realization of the plan and to promote planned and proper growth of the Trashhi Yangtse.
